Women Techmakers is a program created by Google to celebrate International Women's Day by highlighting the talent of women in technology. In 2023, we are organizing the eighth edition in Montreal as part of the special event "The Women Techmakers Global Event Series Celebrating International Women's Day" (WTM IWD). This program has been running in over 200 global events and seen across 52 countries. This community-building initiative aims to promote talented and passionate women, to increase the visibility of the Montreal technology community and to honour and empower women in technology.

About the Event

After seven years of success, even in our past virtual events, the event's reputation is clearly established. This year, we are planning to gather again over 150 attendees for a one-day in person event.
